Ambassador Young arrives

Rhodesians urged to okay new plan

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Police hastily removed a sprinkling of "Young is our enemy" placards in downtown Pretoria today shortly before Ambassador Andrew Young and British Foreign Secretary David Owen met with Prime Minister John Vorster. Owen and the American ambassador to the United Nations sought Vorster's help in getting Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith to accept the new British-American plan to bring black rule to Rhodesia.

Vorster could probably force Smith to accept the plan since South Africa is the principal trade partner and military supplier of Rhodesia's white regime. But the South African leader has said repeatedly he would not put pressure on the Rhodesian whites although he would be willing to point out "alternatives" to their policies.

Owen on his arrival Sunday told reporters it is "very strongly in the national interests of South Africa" that an internationally acceptable settlement be reached to end Rhodesia's five-year-old guerrilla war.

"Anything else won't end the violence," he said.

Young, who angered the South African government by championing black civil rights during a two-day visit in May, indicated he would keep silent on the issue during this visit. He told reporters he would "really only have time" for the Rhodesian question.

Young and Owen flew to Johannesburg from Lusaka, the Zambian capital, after a weekend of intensive talks with the militant black Rhodesian leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe and the presidents of the five "front-line" black nations supporting the guerrillas.

The meetings made clear that the militant blacks would reject the U.S.-British plan unless Smith agrees to the disbanding of the Rhodesian army.

The black leaders want the guerrilla armies recognized immediately as the only defense force in Rhodesia.

Although the plan has not been made public officially, reports of it say it calls for a phased dismantling of the Rhodesian army during the transition to black rule. Smith rejected this last week, but Owen said Sunday:

"I've not interpreted anything he has said as rejecting looking at our proposals."

The plan also reportedly call for disarming of the guerrillas and a British administrator-general backed by an international peace force to supervise an election in which all adult blacks and whites would elect a new parliament.

Chinese leaders confident

Vance briefs Carter on journey to Peking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance is telling President Carter that Chinese leaders are confident, secure in their power and more relaxed than past visitors have found them, says a knowledgeable administration official.

"What comes back from China reinforces the feeling we had at the outset — that this is a very propitious time for renewed contact at the highest level," said the official. But he said there are no plans for Carter to follow Vance to Peking in the near future.

The informant, who declined to be identified, gave an assessment of Vance's report to Carter late Sunday on his four-day visit to Peking last week.

Full diplomatic recognition of Peking's communist government remains at the end of "a long road," the source said.

"It's an ultimate goal," the official said, "but results may not be immediately apparent."

In a statement issued by the White House, Vance and the President said they anticipated "additional constructive meetings ... (with the Chinese) in the weeks and months ahead."

The statement gave no hint of when these meetings will be or which officials will participate. It said Carter and Vance found the secretary's trip "a good beginning" toward recognizing Peking, but added that "it would be premature ... to draw firm conclusions."

Vance's briefing for the President in the Cabinet Room at the White House was attended by Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Secretary of Defense Harold Brown and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the President's national security assistant.

In addition to U.S. relations with China and Japan, they spent three hours talking about Southern Africa, the Middle East, Carter's new Panama Canal treaty, U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks and negotiations for a nuclear test ban.

The administration official declined to provide details on those discussions. But the official said of Vance's report on China:

"The Peking leadership is confident and it projects a feeling of security, indeed of a situation in general which one could describe as more relaxed than what people who have been there in the past have sensed."

The informant said Vance's trip gave him "an opportunity to explain to the Chinese our policies and courses of action and analyses of a number of very important areas of the world."

"From those discussions, the Chinese obtained a much clearer understanding, and in some specific cases I think the results of the discussions left them with an increased degree of assurance to the extent they are interested in our ability, both in terms of capability and of will, to act decisively around the world in global matters."

Reagan statements rapped

Carter predicts solons will ratify canal pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, stepping up its task-force drive for ratification of the new Panama Canal treaty, says opponent Ronald Reagan has raised debate to "a more productive level" by focusing on alternatives to the treaty now in force.

Carter predicts the Senate will ratify his treaty and says he will use a fireside chat to take his campaign for the pact to the American people. He said the consequences would be very severe if the treaty is rejected.

Announcement of the fireside chat came as Hamilton Jordan, the President's top political aide, mounted an all-out drive for ratification. Jordan put assistant Joe Aragon to work on the effort and enlisted help from virtually every sector.

Jordan heads a task force to win the 67 Senate votes needed for approval. Political and business leaders who have helped Carter efforts in the past are being summoned to briefings and dispatched back to states with wavering senators.

White House officials see Reagan's call for "alternative courses of action" that would "recognize the aspirations of the Panamanian people" as an end to his demand that the United States' present treaty with Panama be maintained intact.

"Even Gov. Reagan is saying the status quo is not a real alternative," one administration official said Sunday. "That leaves the question: Are we better off ratifying our new treaty or tearing up the past 13 years of negotiating and starting the process anew?"

The official, who declined to be identified, said he was reporting the views of Carter and his top foreign policy advisers.

"Reagan has elevated the debate to a higher and more productive level," the official said. "Now we'll deliberate alternatives to the terms in the treaty. It won't be a matter of dreams, like keeping the status quo, versus reality, which says we can't."

Actually, there are two new agreements, one to yield control of the canal in the year 2000, and the other to guarantee the permanent neutrality of the waterway along with the right of the United States to keep it open and secure.

The agreements are to be signed here Sept. 7, before the Senate takes up the pact. The signing ceremony, designed to whip up enthusiasm, will be attended by the presidents of South American countries including Chile, Argentina and the Dominican Republic as well as the vice president of Brazil.

Most public opinion polls reflect voter opposition to the treaty. The White House is waiting for a poll of its own to use in its efforts.

Purchaser has no immediate plans

Dice tract brings $3,325 per acre at auction sale

The 130.86-acre farm belonging to the estate of Jean Howat Dice was sold at public auction Saturday for a total of $435,109.50.

The farm which borders the Washington C.H. Country Club was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Dan Kelley of 675 Anderson Road. Richard Snyder of 8787 Washington-Waterloo Road is reportedly a minority partner with the Kelleys.

Kelley, the owner of Dan Kelley Electric, said he had no immediate plans for the acreage.

"There's a great deal of interest from many different parties for the future possibilities of the Dice land," Kelley said following the auction. "Decisions requiring considerable thought and long range planning have to be made."

The tract of land had drawn considerable interest both locally and from out of state, and it is considered to be a prime development area.

There were six other bidders for the tract of land which sold for $3,325 an acre. The Washington Country Club was one party represented in the bidding.

The farm had been in the Dice family for over 100 years and the tract was appraised at $4,000 an acre.

Currently the land is being rented to a local farmer. The lease expires on March 1.

Buildings on the tract include a five-room modern home, a 36-by-60-foot barn with an attached implement shed, and a 60-by-78-foot shed.

The land has two accesses to the U.S. 35 bypass, has frontage on both Ohio 41 and U.S. 62, and is adjacent to the Washington C.H. city limits.

Charles Meriweather was the executor of the estate and the law firm of Kiger and Rossmann represented the estate.

The public auction was handled by the Polk Real Estate firm, 133 S. Main St., and Emerson Martin was the auctioneer.

Lance, Carter meet on budget matter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bert Lance, accused of lacking the qualifications to be budget director, is meeting with the President to discuss a budget matter: how much the government can afford to pay its employees.

Lance, director of the Office of Management and Budget, was scheduled to meet with President Carter today in the Oval Office at the White House. An aide said Carter summoned Lance and two other advisers to talk about budgeting pay for civil servants.

The other advisers are Labor Secretary Ray Marshall and Chairman Alan Campbell of the Civil Service Commission.

The meeting came one day after Sen. William Proxmire, who cast the lone vote against confirming Lance as budget director, said he would like to see Lance replaced — but that Lance should not resign at this time.

Proxmire spoke Sunday on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation."

On the other hand, Rep. Henry Reuss, chairman of the House

Currency and Banking Committee, said Lance should continue in his job.

Reuss, a Wisconsin Democrat, said during a visit to Salt Lake City that Lance broke no laws — although there should be laws against some of the things he did.

"I wouldn't say he should resign, but of course if I had my way he wouldn't be head of the Office of Management and Budget," said Proxmire, also a Wisconsin Democrat and head of the Senate banking committee.

Noting the current controversy over Lance's financial dealings as a Georgia banker, Proxmire said: "If Mr. Lance should leave now, there might be a feeling he was drummed out for a lack of integrity, and he's a man of high integrity. But I do hope there might be a time when Mr. Lance can step aside."

In an investigation of Lance's dealings in recent years, the U.S. comptroller of the currency reported Aug. 18 that he had found what he called unsound banking practices, but cleared Lance of any criminal wrongdoing.

An Associated Press report last week disclosed that Lance pledged the same collateral for separate loans from two different banks. White House Press Secretary Jody Powell called it an innocent mistake.

The New York Times reported in its Sunday editions that Lance apparently failed to disclose all of his financial holdings and debts in a net-worth statement submitted to the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee before it began his confirmation hearings in January.

Robert W. Dietsch, Lance's chief spokesman, denied the assertion and said Lance "completely disclosed everything that was required of him" by President Carter and by the committee.

Lance, in an interview with CBS News, made his own denial: "I'm the most fully disclosed fellow around anywhere that I know about. This is just one more situation that's bringing up the same old thing again, again and again."

Scientists debate Laetrile use

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials are mapping plans this week for conducting case studies of several hundred cancer patients who claim the controversial substance Laetrile helped them.

The officials believe the patients' experiences will confirm their diagnosis that the purported cancer cure is worthless.

They said, however, that if the review does not conclusively support their stand, the government would consider testing Laetrile for the first time on volunteer cancer patients.

The director of the National Cancer Institute, Dr. Arthur C. Upton, said Sunday the government will decide how to pick the cases it will review in a meeting among representatives of his agency, the Food and Drug Administration and the Center for Disease Control.

He did not say when the meeting will be held.

Warning that the government still sees no evidence of Laetrile's usefulness, Upton said, "the only basis on which one would decide to do a trial comes from anecdotal information about patients who have received the drug" — in other words, the patients' own stories.

Upton was questioned on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Laetrile is banned from shipment across state lines by federal law. A dozen states have legalized its sale, however.

Upton's deputy, Dr. Guy R. Newell, said public pressure played a part in the decision to study human cases.

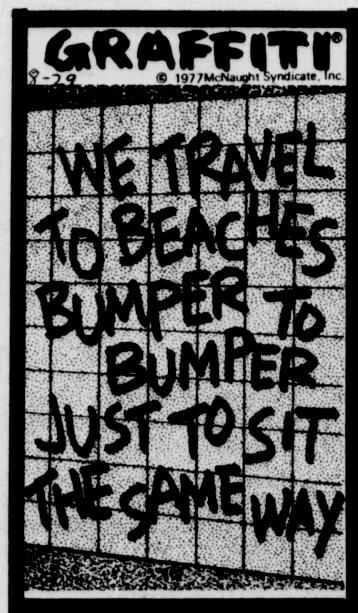

In a telephone interview Sunday night, Newell said the planned review hopes to "collect cases of people who have been treated (with Laetrile) to collect objective information, so we can determine whether there are some bona fide remissions."

The government has said its reviews of Laetrile supporters' claims show the proponents "do not provide the kinds of adequate and self-controlled studies needed to show the effectiveness of a drug"

Newell said the government may study X-rays, slides and charts of several hundred patients who used Laetrile.

Investigators would try to confirm that the patients actually had cancer, if their tumors were reduced and whether they had conventional cancer therapy that could have been responsible for the change.

If improved patients had conventional treatment, it would be "difficult to prove the effects were from Laetrile," he said.

Opinion And Comment

Saving water at home

Drought has hit hard in California, and there is little promise of early relief. Some other parts of the country also have been feeling the pinch of water shortages. This, and the spread of information about water supply questions, has let to widespread interest in ways of conserving water at home.

Even in places where supplies are more or less normal at present, people are exchanging ideas about how to use less water - and trying them out. But it is naturally in the actual water shortage areas this is being done with the greatest sense of urgency.

In Los Angeles, for example, where for the first time mandatory home water rationing is in effect. An ordinance requires a 10 per cent cutback in residential water use. Recently the Los Angeles Times summed up expert advice as to what householders can do to reduce water consumption. Such a summing-up of ideas often suggested strikes us as being of general interest.

Item: "Wash only full loads in your dishwasher and washing machine." Eliminating one full cycle daily for each of these appliances can save a household as much as 76 gallons of water.

Item: "Add water-displacement devices to your toilet tank." Such a device can reduce water use by a gallon per flushing - and on the average that amounts to a saving of five gallons per person daily.

Item: "Add a flow-restrictor to your shower head, or take shallow baths." On the average this can save as much as 27 gallons per bath, or 17½ gallons per shower.

Item: "Use water more efficiently outdoors." Don't hose down sidewalks or driveways; don't over-water lawns and gardens; wash your car with water in buckets, not with a free-running hose. Though the savings vary considerably depending on the size of a yard, they can be substantial.

Item: "Modify your shaving and tooth-brushing habits." This may sound silly - until one realizes that up to 10 gallons may go down the drain if you let the water run while brushing your teeth, from 10 to 40 gallons while shaving. Using a glass of water for tooth-brushing, a basin-full for shaving, will save 10 to 50 gallons a day per person.

A little arithmetic suggests that what we're talking about is a cut in water consumption on the order of 200 to 300 gallons a day, conservatively figured, for a household of four. Multiplied by the number of families in town, that comes out to an eye-opening total. And oh, yes: By all means fix leaks.

THESE DAYS . . . By John Chamberlain

Energy plan a great tax grab

Norman Thomas, who ran for President on the Socialist ticket for more times than he cared to remember, once said that the requirements of socialism would be satisfied once the government could take over the "commanding heights of industry." By "commanding heights," Mr.

Thomas presumably meant the banks, the steel mills and the railroads. If he had lived into the age of the Great Energy Shortage, he might be pleased with Jimmy Carter's energy bill package, which has still to pass the Senate. On the other hand, he might not.

It all depends on whether the imminent dictatorship of James Schlesinger's Department of Energy should be construed as a prelude to socialism or fascism. Murray Rothbard, the dean of our libertarian economists, says it's a prescription for the latter.

In a blistering critique in a new magazine, Libertarian Review, Prof. Rothbard accuses Carter of trying to fasten a "full-fledged energy despotism upon the country." The "moral equivalent of war" turns out to be a hard-sell campaign to impose sacrifices on "us" (the auto-using average citizens whose life styles of many varieties depend on toting kids to school, getting to the supermarket, commuting to the railroad station, etc.) in an effort that will put the bureaucratic advocates of a "no growth" philosophy in charge of our destinies.

As Rothbard sees it, government "planning" to combat an "energy shortage" can only make the shortage, or scarcity, worse. If a free market in energy were allowed to exist, the price mechanism would soon allocate scarcities and lure enterprisers into creating alternative energy systems. But with the energy "fascists" in charge, there will be endless debates about the relative merits of coal, atomic energy, solar power and new oil exploration, with arbitrary edicts messing up the smooth functioning of the market place.

It is not only the libertarians who are fearful of a "moral equivalent of war" that would impose sacrifices upon us instead of fostering the adventurous spirit that would result in opening up new sources of energy. Lewis Lapham, the liberal editor of Harper's Magazine, who "holds no brief for the merchant class and its habit of blind rapacity," avers, in a remarkable article called "The Energy Debacle," that he "cannot see how a policy of 'zero growth' can do anything but lead to even more savage result."

The Carter energy program, says Lapham, is the product of a research project conducted by S. David Freeman, an ex-TVA bureaucrat who is going back to the TVA, for the Ford Foundation. Given grants of some $4 million between 1971 and 1974, Freeman produced a compendium of research in 21 volumes. The final report, "A Time to Choose," suggested that the U.S., to use Lapham's words, "could reduce its demand for energy by as much as 50 per cent if only it would establish a Federal agency large enough and forceful enough to impose rationing (on heating fuels as well as gasoline), allocate resources, rearrange the international oil market, set prices, raise taxes, issue energy stamps, and redistribute income."

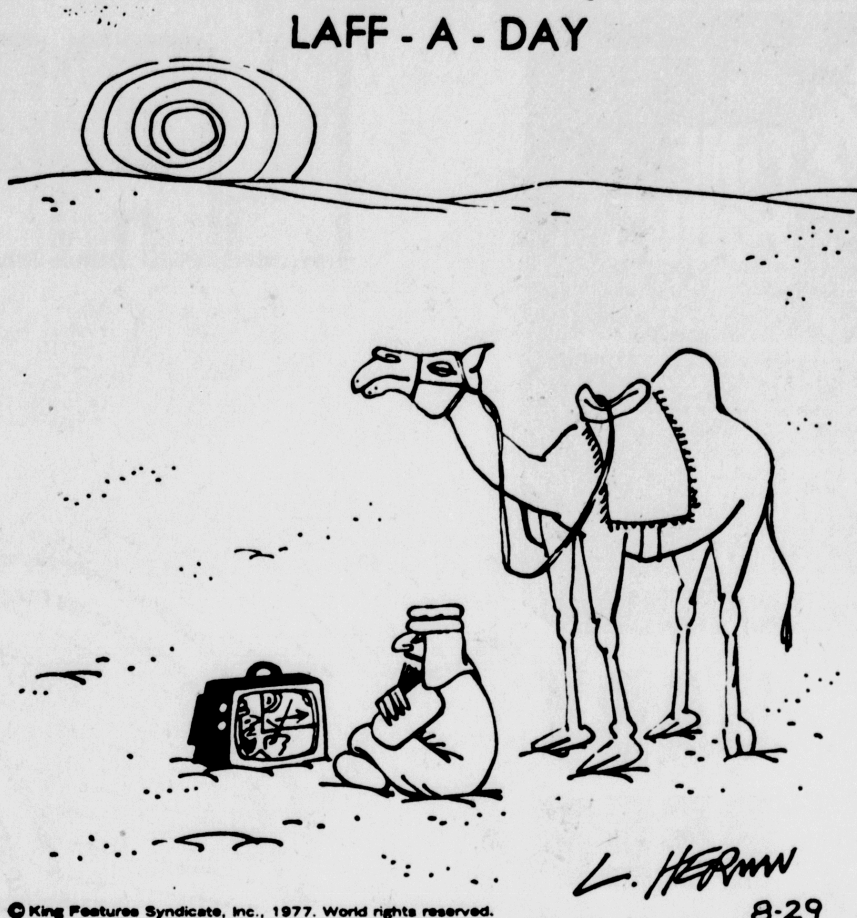

If that isn't an almost exact replica of the sort of corporate state thinking that one finds in the memorabilia of Hitler's economic "genius," Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht, this column will eat at least one of Freeman's 21 volumes. The point is that Freeman, in his puritanical zeal, wants us to cut our energy consumption by one-half instead of going all out to make use of the new long-life batteries for electric cars, to develop a methanol substitute for gasoline, to bring a sulfur-free coal to market, to build new atomic plants with due regard to safety engineering, and to find and exploit new sources of natural gas and oil. As Lapham says, the Freemans among us "resent the messiness of abundance. In a robust or creative society, too many people go around making things without permission, inventing new sources of wealth and political theory.

Times interview Ford approves

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Gerald R. Ford has granted an interview to the New York Times for publication upon his death, Newsweek magazine says.

The magazine reports in this week's issue that the Times had been after Ford for a year for the obituary interview but was stalled by Donald Rumsfeld, Ford's former chief of staff, who objected on grounds that it was a "morbid" idea.

Newsweek said Ford enthusiastically ordered approval of the interview, the contents of which will be kept secret until Ford's death.

Ohio Perspective

Rhodes conserving support for vetoes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — To conserve his support for vetoes of major legislation, Gov. James A. Rhodes has permitted 15 bills to become law this year without his signature.

Fewer than half a dozen bills were allowed to become law that way during Rhodes' first two years in office, as the governor vetoed 23 measures outright and parts of eight others.

But that was before Democrats gained a veto-proof majority in the Ohio General Assembly.

During the first seven months of this session, Rhodes vetoed only four bills. His line-item vetoes of sections of the budget and election day registration law were overridden. But Democratic leaders have not yet called for override votes on bills providing job protection for teachers and redistricting the Hamilton County Municipal Court to ensure election of a black judge.

Rhodes says the assembly has sent him "better quality" legislation, but he concedes it would be futile, in the face of the Democratic numbers, to reject every item that he is not in complete agreement with.

The strategy then is to carefully select issues on which Republican support is solid and a few Democratic cross-over votes might be captured, rather than veto every objectionable bill only to be overridden by the Democratic majority.

Rhodes, who is allowed 10 days to sign or veto legislation, can let the 10-day period expire and take no action. The bill in question becomes law, but the governor is not on record as endorsing it.

"He's being more discretionary in his vetoes and more temperate," agrees Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron.

The most dramatic example of the Republican governor's new temperament occurred last week when he decided not to disturb a controversial budget language bill that lays down "legislative intent" for spending the state's $13 billion budget.

"I do this in the spirit of cooperation with the General Assembly," Rhodes said in a message announcing his decision. "I do it also in the interest of preventing further litigation arising out of legislation passed by the General Assembly."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

What (not) to expect from a married lover

DEAR ABBY: You once printed a letter of advice to any woman who was in love with a married man. In it you stated what she should and should not expect from her married lover.

As I sit alone on my patio recalling the wonderful stolen hours I shared with my married lover, I ache with loneliness and I think I could derive some comfort from that letter. It certainly rang a bell with me.

I know he loves me, but I can't compete with a wife and four children, a lovely home and a respectable name in the community. I know I'll never have him. I never meant for this to get so serious, but it's too late now. Maybe I deserve the pain. I knew better. Please try to find that letter and run it again. He calls me ...

STARSHINE

DEAR STARSHINE: Here's the letter. I hope it helps:

DEAR ABBY: May I give your readers the benefit of my very valuable experience? I address this to any woman who is in love with a married man:

Never expect to see him on Sunday or holidays. Never call him at home. Don't ever expect him to take you out in public, but be prepared to entertain him at your place. He may bring a bottle or the steaks occasionally, but in actual dollars and cents, you will spend more on him than he'll spend on you.

Never depend on him in time of personal crisis. Don't believe him when he tells you that his wife is a shrew, cold, homey, too fat (or too thin), and she hasn't slept with him in 10 years.

Don't expect his wife to divorce him if she catches him. She knows that you aren't his first affair and won't be his last. Also, she's not about to give up her social status, financial security and retirement income because of you. However, her discovery will probably terminate his affair with you, so be prepared to get some new clothes, circulate and find another man whose wife is a shrew, cold, homey, too fat (or too thin), and hasn't slept with him for 10 years.

Sign me ...

HIS WIFE

DEAR ABBY: I'm a fellow who has let my hair grown down to my shoulders. Some people call me "miss". How can I let them know I am a man?

MANNY

DEAR MANNY: Grow a beard. DEAR ABBY: My daughter goes around with a girl who brags about all the stuff she has shoplifted from stores. (She's taken jewelry, cosmetics, records and clothes.)

This girl is pretty and comes from a very nice family, and her parents can buy her anything she wants. She is a junior in high school, Abby.

Should I tell her mother? I'm afraid she will get caught and hurt her parents or herself if this continues. No name or town, please.

MRS. X

DEAR MRS. X: Of course you should tell her mother. If she were your daughter, wouldn't YOU want to know?

Auto theft ring cracked

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two Cleveland policemen noticed a tow truck speeding Sunday. They followed the truck to a towing yard on Cleveland's east side where they found a yard full of stolen vehicles.

Patrolmen David Kavulich and Luis Lazar said when they observed the speeding tow truck they called for a license check and found the car in tow had been reported as stolen.

They arrested the 21-year-old driver when he finally stopped at Chris Towing and Transmission Service. When asked where he picked up the car, the driver was reported to have said, "A little old lady gave it to me."

A 38-year-old man at the address was also arrested. Their identities were withheld, pending charges.

Det. David Karnatowski of the auto theft and burglary unit said six cars, two trucks and a $40,000 farm tractor were found.

The cars had been reported stolen in other Ohio cities and the tractor came from Michigan, he said, adding that one of the cars had been used in a homicide last year, but refusing to give further details.

Four more cars found at the site are believed stolen because their serial numbers were missing, Karnatowski said.

Police said they are checking to see if the operation is part of a large theft ring that hires independent tow truck drivers to steal vehicles and strip them for parts.

Crackdown set on dune buggies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Persons operating all-purpose vehicles in unauthorized areas on state-owned land will be prosecuted, Robert W. Teater, director of the state Department of Natural Resources said.

The use of dune buggies, four-wheel drive vehicles and trail bikes on areas that are not roadways or designated for use of such vehicles causes damage to the natural environment and animal habitats and disturbs wildlife, he warned. It also destroys vegetation and often causes soil erosion problems, he added.

The department has designated all-purpose vehicle areas at four state forests. They are Maumee in Fulton County, Pike in Pike County, Richland Furnace in Jackson County, and Perry Reclamation Area in Perry County.

The bicycle, with a front wheel four feet high, became a fad in Ohio in 1878. By 1887 new bicycles with wheels of the same size were introduced. —AP

MR. and MRS. CHARLES E. FLINT

New Vienna Church of Christ is setting for marriage

Miss Patricia Ann Sharp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Sharp of near Lees Creek, became the bride of Charles Edward Flint, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Flint of New Vienna, at 7:30 p.m. Friday. The Rev. Jim Wright performed the double ring candlelight ceremony in the New Vienna Church of Christ before an altar enhanced with a fireside basket of mixed flowers in the center, and three branch candelabra. At each side stood a seven branch candelabra tied with satin bows. The pews were marked with aisle candles tied with white satin bows. The organ was decorated by a carnation bouquet crocheted by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Dwight Bentley of Lees Creek.

A half-hour program of music preceding the ceremony included Miss Kim Hite, vocalist, of Sabina, and organist Miss Lora Ballinger of New Vienna. Numbers included "We've Only Just Begun," "If," and "The Wedding Song." During the ceremony Miss Hite sang "The Lord's Prayer."

When approaching the altar, the bride gave her mother a long-stemmed yellow rose. At the beginning of the ceremony, the parents of the couple lighted their respective candles, and at the end of the ceremony, the newlyweds lighted the center candle, representing unity. On the return down the aisle, the bride gave the groom's mother a long-stemmed yellow rose. She was given in marriage by her parents, and escorted down the aisle by her father.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white quiana with lace bodice overlay and long lace sleeves. The matching lace chapel-length train was attached at the waist. She wore her sister's veil which was two tiers and elbow length. In keeping with tradition, she wore her mother's diamond necklace for something borrowed. For something old, she carried a handkerchief of her grandmother's, 94-year old Mrs. George Compton of Wilmington, but was unable to be present for the wedding. She also wore a blue garter. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses with baby's breath with pastel streamers. She made her wedding gown and those of the attendants.

Mrs. David McKenzie of Sabina, matron of honor and sister of the bride, wore a blue quiana princess style dress with sheer floral cape. Miss Lynn Smith of Sabina, wore pink and Miss Cindy Flint of New Vienna, sister of the groom, wore green. Each wore a floppy hat and carried a single long-stemmed yellow rose with pastel streamers. Miss Alison Flint, sister of the groom and the flower girl, wore a yellow quiana dress trimmed with floral pastel lace and carried a basket of pastel daisies. She, too, wore a floppy hat.

Mrs. Sharp wore a long garden pink gown with matching jacket for her daughter's wedding. The grooms mother chose a long melon gown with matching jacket. Both mothers wore corsages of yellow roses.

Randy Thompson of New Vienna served as best man, and seating the wedding guests were David McKenzie of Sabina, and Larry K. Woolums of Lees Creek.

Hostesses for the reception held in the social room of the church were Mrs. Doug Barton and Mrs. Steve Sharp of Sabina; Mrs. Mark Esselman of Washington C.H.; Miss Jennie Sharp of Wilmington; Miss Jackalyn Walker of Bellvue, Colo.; and Miss Beth Woods of New Vienna. Miss Denise Davis and Miss Beth Germann presided at the guest book.

The bride's table, covered with a white lace cloth, held a five tiered wedding cake decorated with yellow roses and topped with a cluster of yellow silk roses arranged by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Harold David of Lees Creek. Silver candle holders completed the setting. Pastel shades were carried out in the punch, mints and napkins.

For traveling, the bride wore a yellow pantsuit with her mother's corsage of yellow roses at her shoulder. Upon their return, the couple will reside near Lees Creek.

Both are graduates of East Clinton High School. Mr. Flint is employed at Farmer's Exchange and she is employed at Fayette County Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Flint entertained the rehearsal party on Thursday evening at their home in New Vienna. Guests other than the wedding party were Keith Sharp and Miss Jackalyn Walker, Jack Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Barton, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Sharp, Mrs. Harvie Flint and Mrs. Charles Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Bentley, Mrs. T.L. Sharp, Miss Kim Hite and Miss Lora Ballinger.

CHARLOTTE MOSENTHAL'S BANANA BREAD

The friend who contributed this recipe says it's great for peanut-butter sandwiches or toasted and spread with butter.

1 cup fine whole wheat flour, fork-stir well before measuring ¾ cup white flour, fork-stir well before measuring
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1-3rd cup firmly packed light brown sugar

Congressional redistricting measure drawing opposition

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Senate-passed bill creating new congressional districts in Ohio more to Democrats' advantage, is drawing opposition from incumbent Democratic congressmen.

Steubenville Rep. Douglas Applegate (18th District), accused state legislators of his own party of "blatant politics" and said he is totally opposed.

Applegate said Democrats Donald J. Pease of Oberlin (13th District), John F. Seiberling of Akron (14th District), and Charles J. Carney, Youngstown (19th District) are also against it.

Ohio's Republican congressmen, who dominate the current delegation 13-10, also are fighting the plan—not only because of what it would do to their own reelection chances, but for what it would do to their party's sagging fortunes.

The Democratic opposition is best explained by the disruption the bill would bring to the incumbents' own districts.

That's because any redistricting plan comes off like a big jigsaw puzzle that has a domino effect on existing districts, when implemented.

As sent to the House in July, the bill by Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, would cost Applegate part of his native Columbiana County, and give him some new territory where he never has run as a candidate.

Mostly, the same kind of reasons are cited by incumbents of both parties and by cities and counties accustomed to their existing districts and the congressmen who serve them. Columbiana County doesn't want to become "the tail end of some other district," Applegate said.

The bill makes three-way pies of Stark and Clark counties, where similar complaints have been heard from officials and voters who don't want the divisions.

Sen. Valiquette, who had help getting the bill through the Senate from Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, points out that over the years, Republicans redistricted Congress to their advantage. She noted Democrats haven't had the strength in the legislature to do it for a half century, and should act while they have the chance.

Redistricting normally is done following each federal census, the last of which was in 1970. The next will be in 1980. Applegate said now "is the wrong time" and that the legislature should wait until after the next census.

The Valiquette bill is pending in the House Governmental Affairs Committee for possible hearings when the legislature reconvenes Sept. 19. House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said that while the bill is "not one of my priorities, we're going to take a look at it."

Jimmy's White House

White House aide's dressing habits prompt talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's fondness for blue jeans and work boots has been chronicled amply. And there has been ample comment about the aversion to ties shown by his chief aide, Hamilton Jordan.

But hidden in a White House basement inner sanctum, near a sign on a door that says "Situation Room," is a man whose sartorial habits would have gone unnoticed were it not for a shockingly loud tie he wore recently with an otherwise conservative outfit.

His name is Jerrold Schecter. He's the spokesman for the National Security Council.

He showed up for work one day wearing a wide tie, decorated with nearly iridescent flowers. It prompted White House Press Secretary Jody Powell to talk at some length about the neighborhoods in which Schecter shops for clothes.

As Powell began his daily news briefing for several dozen reporters, Schecter stood in a doorway of the briefing room, as usual, to assist the press secretary in answering questions related to foreign policy.

The press secretary took one look at Schecter and couldn't resist a few comments about the NSC spokesman and his ties.

"He roams the streets of disreputable neighborhoods and cuts them from the necks of people passed out against the sides of buildings," Powell suggested.

Remember last winter when the President told everyone during the natural gas shortage to turn the thermostats down to 68 degrees? He made a point of letting us know he was making sure the White House thermostats were turned down.

Do you remember the beginning of the summer when he suggested that we cut back on air conditioning to save electricity? The White House maintenance staff dutifully followed his orders and the thermostats went up at the White House.

Then one day the President was about to come down to the briefing room to speak in front of television cameras after a special conference on his energy policy. More than 100 persons crowded into the room, hot television lights were turned on and the temperature kept climbing.

A secretary to one of the President's closest advisers sized up the situation and decided a temporary policy shift would be in order.

She picked up the telephone, called an engineer, and said "The boss is going to be down in the briefing room in a few minutes." It was awfully hot, she said, wondering whether it was possible to turn up the air conditioning slightly so the President would not have to roast under the hot lights.

The problem was taken care of.

Quadriplegic makes most of life

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — With nothing but his head to depend on for a career, Bobby Spencer is making the most of it.

Spencer is a quadriplegic, confined to a wheelchair and paralyzed from the neck down.

At 25 and eight years after life almost ended, he is an artist, lives alone with the aid of hired help, is working through a vocational program as an artist, types, writes, reads, plays chess and works at helping other paralyzed persons.

Spencer was 17 on June 2, 1969 when he was struck in the neck by a shotgun blast fired by neighbor who suspected prowlers.

He was pronounced dead at University Hospital. But doctors inserted an air tube in his throat and operated.

It was more than a year before he got home.

"I didn't do anything for six months," he said. "I felt I had lost everything. What can you do when you're paralyzed from the neck down and only have your head? That's the way I felt."

A magazine story of another quadriplegic who used a mouth stick to paint was the turning point. He spent years reading and learning to paint.

Most of his 80 works so far are landscapes and when he gets into a work he's likely to spend all night at his easel.

"It gets frustrating a lot, but it can never get boring," he said. "When I was younger, I didn't like art. All I wanted to do was to get out to the baseball diamond or football field. I guess that's why I do landscapes."

Youth injured in farm mishap

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported a local youth was injured when he was knocked from a hay wagon Sunday afternoon in a farm field off Ohio 41-N.

Paul R. Smith, 15, of 1794 Ohio 41-N, was taken to Fayette County Memorial Hospital in a private car after the baler he was riding on turned a corner and he was knocked off the vehicle. He was treated and released for minor injuries.

The sheriff's department report stated the wagon ran over the youth's right leg and left foot after he fell. The incident occurred about 1:10 p.m. on Jess Crago's farm.

Ohio was the fifth state to ratify the woman's suffrage amendment to the Constitution in 1919. By 1923 there were six women in the state legislature. — AP

Last gift over period of years

College gets $93,000 from estate

WILMINGTON, Ohio — Wilmington College has received $93,000 from the estate of the late Pauline (Mrs. Thomas S.) Townsley, a long-time Wilmington resident.

Mrs. Townsley died February 11, 1977. Her husband, who had served on the Wilmington College board of trustees in the late 1940s and early 1950s, died in 1959. The couple had no children. The bequest was the last in a series of gifts the Townsleys had made to Wilmington College over a period of years.

In August, 1962 Mrs. Townsley in return for a life annuity, gave the college the 110-acre Townsley farm on Ohio 68, north of Wilmington. This property became one of the cornerstones for the college's growing agricultural program.

In 1964 Mrs. Townsley turned over to the college, reserving a life interest, the property at 615 Rombach Avenue, in Wilmington. This house had at one time served as the residence of the Wilmington College president.

In addition, the college received from Mrs. Townsley a part interest in a California home, and just prior to her death she presented the college with a grand piano as a permanent furnishing for the college president's home, Firbank Fell.

The Townsleys were originally from Indiana. Mr. Townsley was born July 4, 1889, in Pleasantville, Indiana. Mrs. Townsley was born October 12, 1891, in Boone County, Indiana. They came to Wilmington in 1937.

The Townsleys were farmers in Clinton County for many years, operating the Townsley Trapnest Hatchery, one of the early automated poultry operations in this part of the country.

Mr. Townsley was a Rotarian, served as vice-president for development at Wilmington College in the 1950s, was an officer of the Wilmington Methodist Church, a director of the First National Bank in Wilmington, and was president of the building board of Clinton Memorial Hospital when that structure was being erected in 1951. He was a graduate of Purdue University, majoring in agriculture.

In 1930 the Townsleys traveled to the Soviet Union where Mr. Townsley installed poultry incubators for an American firm.

Mrs. Townsley, who kept the books for the Trapnest Hatchery, was described as a very capable businesswoman. She was also depicted as a "practical Christian if there ever was one" by the family lawyer, Frederick J. Buckley, of Wilmington.

"Unknown to virtually everyone," Buckley said, "the Townsleys over the years aided many persons in obtaining a college education, making direct grants to students who were in need."

Mr. Townsley at one time said there were two reasons why he became interested in Wilmington College: because it was easier to do business in a community where the people have had college opportunities and because the future of civilization depended upon Christian education and leadership and the independent Christian college was a very important agent in producing this leadership.

He added that free institutions should be supported by voluntary subscriptions from public-minded citizens.

Commenting on the Townsley's long support of Wilmington College, President Dr. Robert E. Lucas said: "The enthusiasm and generosity which Thomas and Pauline Townsley displayed toward Wilmington College was grounded in their basic belief in higher education in general. There was a spirit of civic responsibility which saw the college as an integral part of the community. They were among Wilmington's staunchest friends and live on as everyday reminders to us of one couple's belief in sharing their life rewards with others."

Defunct agency having problems

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The now-defunct Consumer Interest Corp., (CIC), which closed its doors in February, is having problems returning $1,200 to its former clients.

CIC, an investment consultation firm, closed following an audit which revealed instances of alleged forgery of agency checks, thefts of agency funds and poor bookkeeping.

Barbara Heizerling, former CIC president, said the agency has returned much of the money deposited by former clients with which CIC was to pay the clients' creditors, but $1,200 of it was returned in the mail.

Mrs. Heizerling said some clients gave incorrect mailing addresses, or have moved and left no forwarding addresses, and the CIC is unable to locate them.

The CIC board has decided to hold the $1,200 in escrow for one year, to give former clients time to claim their money. Any remaining funds after that would be used to pay the agency's outstanding debts.

The warm, humid weather late summer weather continued across Ohio today with showers or thundershowers expected to provide some relief.

Temperatures at daybreak lowered only into the upper 60s and low 70s with humidities in the 70s. Some showers and thundershowers moved into the northwestern counties soon after midnight and were expected to spread across the entire state today.

This precipitation was associated with a slow moving cold front which was forecast to move completely through the state by tonight.

Temperatures today were forecast to remain warm with readings mostly in the 80s.

Scattered rain, cold front hit

By The Associated Press

Scattered showers and thundershowers associated with a cold front continued from the great lakes to the southern Plains, with the heaviest activity extending from central Arkansas into southern Illinois.

Light showers and thundershowers were spotted along the Gulf coast and the Pacific Northwest.

Skies were clear to partly cloudy from New England through the Ohio valley and the Carolinas. Similar conditions continued from the upper Mississippi valley across the northern and central Plains, the central and southern Rockies, and the Great Basin to the California coast.

Early morning temperatures around the nation ranged from 42 in Laramie, Wyo. to 88 in Blythe, Calif.

Judge sentences Kent prof to write 1,500-word paper

KENT, Ohio (AP) — A Kent State University English professor, arrested while protesting a campus construction project, will write a 1,500-word paper on the philosophy of civil disobedience rather than go to jail for his acts.
The homework was assigned to Prof. Edward McGehee on Saturday when visiting Municipal Court Judge James De Vinne gave him 30 days to write the composition on why he defied a court order to oppose construction of a gymnasium annex near the site of 1970 campus shootings.
"Those of us who hold office, certainly in this day and age, should be held to a higher degree of moral accountability," the judge said following a hearing in nearby Ravenna.
McGehee, 58, was among 23 persons who went to no contest pleas to charges of criminal trespass stemming from a mass arrest of dissenters. They were arrested while occupying the construction site on July 29.
McGehee said Sunday that in the thesis, he would stress his viewpoint that murder was committed when four students were slain May 4, 1970 as Ohio National Guardsmen shot into a group of antiwar demonstrators, wounding another nine.

"I told the judge that the six KSU trustees who won't do anything about moving the gym are the ones who should be in court, not those who are protesting the gym site," McGehee said.

The professor was the only defendant required to write a thesis for punishment. The rest were sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $250, with $150 of the fine and any further jail time suspended.

Judge De Vinne, who was visiting from East Cleveland, told McGehee to write about "the ideas of the right to dissent and the moral act you've undertaken in this case."

Eight of the 23 persons who pleaded no contest Saturday had been arrested earlier on a contempt charge for occupying the construction site. Forty-seven of the 68 persons arrested on July 29 have now been sentenced.

Farm workers in Alaska earning top U.S. wages

WASHINGTON (AP) — There aren't a lot of farm jobs in Alaska, but the pay is the best in the country.

The Agriculture Department says farm workers in Alaska earn an average of $4.86 an hour, compared with $3.50 in California — the highest in the continental United States. Hawaii is second in the country at $4.32 an hour.

On a national average, hired farm workers this summer made $2.77 an hour, up from $2.53 a year ago, according to a quarterly survey made by the USDA's Statistical Reporting Service.

The wage figures for Alaska were the first for the state, officials said. Only 830 paid farm workers were reported in Alaska, compared with 296,000 in California and 17,700 in Hawaii.

As devised by USDA, the wage rates involve different methods of payments such as piece work and jobs that include perquisites such as room and board. Allowances are made for those benefits in converting all wages to hourly rates.

The lowest wage rate paid to farm workers in the 48 contiguous states was $2.01 an hour this summer in West Virginia to 6,300 workers, according to the survey. That was down from an average of $2.18 a year ago.

But the commonwealth of Puerto Rico showed the lowest of all American possessions, averaging $1.69 an hour for 32,000 hired farm workers, up from $1.61 a year ago.

In all, there were 1,858,000 paid workers on U.S. farms when the survey was made the week of July 10-16, the report said. That was a decline from 2,063,400 workers a year ago. Cutbacks in acreages of some crops and changes in crops and livestock enterprises contributed to the decline. Drought also has been a factor in some major areas of the country.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — For years, Chicago's famed Second City comedy club has been largely known as the joint such folks as Valerie Harper, Avery Schrieber and many of NBC's "Saturday Night" gang came from. But it could escape its graduate-school-for-laughter tag soon — with its own weekly TV comedy series. The name of the half-hour effort is "Second City T.V." The inmates are "taping 26 shows for starters."

The series, sold to stations on a syndicated basis in 43 markets so far, will commence next month in most of those markets, save New York, where the goods don't go on display until October.

According to Bernard Sahlins, producer of the show and operator of the 17½-year-old Chicago chuckle works, the aim of the TV show is to make sport of, ah, television.

The spoofing occurs at Second City's Channell 109, a mythical station which employs seven performer-writers from the troupe's home club and one it opened in Toronto, Canada, about five years ago.

"What we're doing is parodying every conceivable television form, from sitcoms to 'Sunrise Semester,' everything we can lay our hands on," he said. "I tell you, it's an unlimited field."

Speaking by phone from the Windy City, he said each show's satirical and just plain off-the-wall skits all are written by the series' featured — and relatively unknown — players.

Wares range from a "full-length" TV version of "BenHur" lasting 14 minutes, to a piece on critics, with someone posing as Geraldo Rivera asking a Rex "Gong Show" Reed poseur about the carping trade.

Sahlins, whose Chicago club seats 350 patrons, 351 if they're well-acquainted, was asked why his gang didn't try the weekly TV route before. He said times weren't as right for it as now.

"There's a whole new generation of viewers out there now who were brought up on 'Laugh-In,' 'That Was the Week That Was,' even 'Sesame Street,' with quick, fast humor that short-cuts the (story) exposition required in situation comedies," he said.

"They don't demand continuing characters in the same way audiences did before, and that's sort of a trend in humor now."

He cited the non sequitur jesting of 'Monty Python's Flying Circus' as a prime example of the kind of tomfoolery young urban audiences now seem to prefer when they turn on the tube.

"I think in many cases the television audience is underestimated in this sense," he said. "I suspect the situation comedy might be in for a little heavier going from now on."

If the show — taped in Toronto because it cost less to make there — clicks with viewers and reviewers, he said, production on another 26 episodes will start in May.

Women's leader linked to spies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Karen DeCrow was linked by the FBI in 1953 to a group trying to save condemned spies Ethel and Julius Rosenberg but the former head of the National Organization for Women says she was just 15 and interested in "clothes, boys and cashmere sweaters" then.

Ms. DeCrow learned of the Rosenberg link in 44 pages of heavily censored FBI files on her that she obtained through the Freedom of Information Act.

Ms. DeCrow, a Syracuse, N.Y., lawyer, says "my memory of myself (in 1953) is that I was completely nonpolitical ... it's possible someone came up to me in the schoolyard and asked me to sign a petition but I don't recall anything like that."

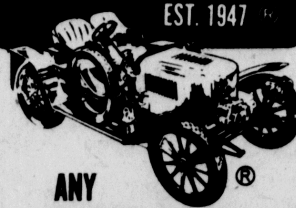

The memo also said that a suspected security risk whose name was deleted, "received correspondence from Karen Lipschultz" (Ms. DeCrow's name before she married) in 1955. She said she knows of no New York political figures to whom she would have been writing at the age of 17.

Several of the memos concern Ms. DeCrow's 1969 and 1970 activities in the women's movement, primarily in Syracuse, but there were no entries for the years she was NOW's president.

Ms. DeCrow said her files show "the most incredible waste of the taxpayer's money" in compiling such information.

Reds sweep Phils

Sleeping giant awakes

CINCINNATI (AP) — The sleeping giant has finally awakened in the west. But too much time may have ticked away on the Cincinnati Reds, who are suddenly one of the hottest teams in the National League.

The Reds extended their winning streak to five in a row Sunday — and 12 out of 15 — capping a three-game sweep of the Philadelphia Phillies with a 9-0 pounding.

But they have little to show for their efforts, except some badly needed momentum.

Despite their hottest tear in three months, the Reds remain 8½ games behind the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers, who continue to eat up valuable time as the season winds down to its final five weeks.

"If we can cut it down to four or five games in the next couple weeks, we'll be all right," said slugger George Foster, who smacked a three-run homer, his 43rd of the season, leaving him six shy of the club record.

"He'll get his 50 now," predicted Reds Manager Sparky Anderson. "He's capable of hitting 10 more."

While the Reds fail to gain ground in their own division, they continue to put a crimp in the playoff plans of the Phils. It was Philadelphia's fifth straight loss — their longest of the season — reducing their Eastern Division lead to 3½ games. The Phils have dropped 10 straight games in Cincinnati over two seasons.

"Maybe this will help us realize it's not going to be the cakewalk it looked like it was going to be," said losing pitcher Randy Lerch.

He was referring to Philadelphia's torrid August performance that included 13 victories in a row and 19 of 21 games during one stretch.

In Saturday scrimmages

Blue Lion defense, Panther offense shine

The Washington C.H. Blue Lions won a controlled scrimmage against Anderson High School Saturday.

Although the scrimmage was far from a normal game situation, the Lions scored two touchdowns on a 70-yard run by Larry Brickles and a 55-yard dash by Jeff Elliott.

In addition, quarterback Todd Terrell completed five passes and Ed Forsythe completed one, while 12 passes were attempted.

Meanwhile, the defense played real well, Coach Paul Ondrus said. Anderson's longest run from Scrimmage was about 12 yards and Ondrus estimated that they probably had minus yards on total offense.

Defensively, the coach said, "The kids knew what they were doing. They were aggressive."

Chester Hollar and Duane Six were excellent at their positions, Ondrus said. "The defensive backs, particularly Tony West, who did just great, contained the option and threw them for a loss on a number of occasions," he said. The coach was pleased with the defensive playing of Elliott, Tate Wilson and Jim McDonald.

Ondrus said the defensive ends, linebackers and middle guards got the job done but the technique wasn't there.

On offense, the most consistent blocker was center Wilson, Ondrus said.

Ondrus said the team is way ahead of schedule in preparation as compared to a year ago.

Miami Trace also enjoyed a good day in scrimmage as the Panthers' first offensive unit racked up almost 300 yards in total offense in 40 plays which is about half of a game, Coach Fred Zechman said.

Art Schlichter passed 14 times completing nine for 170 yards. Bill Hanners made two super catches, Zechman said including a diving catch.

Denny Combs had the best day among the running backs as he carried the ball 10 times for 67 yards.

Scott Martin, left guard, was one of the leading blockers, according to the coach, and Jim Stookey and Dave Hennessy, the right messenger guards also had good days.

The defense had two interceptions and a fumble recovery.

The top defensive players were Dave Hennessy and Shawn Riley, Zechman said. Shawn has shown some maturity as a second-year starter and Dave has been a pleasant surprise, he said.

Only one pass completion by the first team was made against the Miami Trace secondary.

Coach Zechman said the scrimmage enabled the Panther second and third teams to play against comparable players on the opposing squad.

"Doug Merritt had a couple of good runs and on defense, Paul Prater and Robbie James looked good," he said.

TOUCHDOWN — Jeff Elliott (7) of the Blue Lions evades an Anderson defender and scampers 55 yards upfield for the paydirt in the endzone. Larry Brickles had a 70-yard run for a touchdown as the Washington C.H. football team dominated Saturday's scrimmage with Anderson High School.

Garvey goes 5 for 5; Sutton wins shutout

Dodgers wallop Cards, 11-0

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer
Steve Garvey's line in the Los Angeles Dodgers' boxscore Sunday would have done him proud in a poker game.

Garvey had four hits — five hits, five runs batted in and five runs scored in five at-bats — as the Dodgers walloped the St. Louis Cardinals 11-0. But, team man that he is, Garvey preferred to talk about the Dodgers' revival.

"It looks like we're going to start rolling now that we've played so well in the last three days," said the All-Star first baseman, who blasted two home runs, one a grand slam, and three doubles in Los Angeles' third straight victory over the Cardinals. "The key is we're still 8½ games ahead of the (Cincinnati) Reds."

Don Sutton also was a hero for Los Angeles, registering his 47th career shutout, tops for active major league pitchers. Sutton, who has 188 lifetime victories, is 21 shy of Don Drysdale, the team's all-time leader. Sutton also is two shutouts behind Drysdale.

St. Louis' Lou Brock, who is just one stolen base short of Ty Cobb's lifetime record of 892, failed to reach base and was ejected from the game in the eighth inning for arguing on a called strike.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds blasted the Philadelphia Phillies 9-0, the Pittsburgh Pirates trounced the San Diego Padres 10-1, the San Francisco Giants beat the Chicago Cubs 4-1, the Atlanta Braves downed the New York Mets 6-4 and the Houston Astros topped the Montreal Expos 7-2.

Reds 9, Phillies 0

The Reds, beginning to play like world champions at last, won their fifth straight game and 12th in the last 15, pummeling Philadelphia. The loss was the Phillies' fifth in a row and the 10th straight setback in Cincinnati for the Eastern Division leaders. The Phils now lead second-place Pittsburgh by only 3½ games.

Dave Concepcion, who has driven in 10 runs in his last five games, knocked in four runs with two doubles for Cincinnati. George Foster smacked his 43rd homer — tops in the major leagues — a three-run shot in the second, giving him 123 RBI for the season, a career high.

Pirates 10, Padres 1

The Pirates completed a three-game sweep of San Diego as Jim Rooker hurled his seventh complete game of the season, a seven-hitter. Rooker, 11-8, got home run support from Fernando Gonzalez, who belted a three-run shot in the third off loser Bob Shirley, 8-16.

Dave Parker, who leads the NL in batting with a .347 average, had three hits, as did Al Oliver.

Giants 4, Cubs 1

Willie McCovey's two-run double in the third inning helped Ed Halicki to his 12th victory against 10 losses. McCovey's two RBI gave him 1,400 for his career.

Cubs starter Dave Roberts, 0-1, intentionally walked Bill Madlock to pitch to McCovey, who ruined the strategy by lining his double to left center.

Braves 6, Mets 4

Rowland Office crashed a two-run homer in the fifth, putting Atlanta ahead of the Mets to stay. The victory was the Braves' fifth in a row, their longest winning streak of the season.

Eddie Solomon, 4-3, pitched 8 2-3 innings before giving way to Dave Campbell, who picked up his fifth save.

Astros 7, Expos 2

Houston erupted for five runs in the eighth inning in completing a three-game sweep of Montreal and extending its winning string to five.

Joe Ferguson's two-run homer capped the rally and gave Floyd Bannister, 5-7, the victory. Montreal ace Steve Rogers, 14-13, took the loss.

Indians down Mariners, 10-6

Guidry, Yankees top Texas, 1-0

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

It was Ron Guidry's 27th birthday and he could only think of three better presents to give himself.

"The only things I can think of besides this are a one-hitter, a no-hitter and a perfect game," Guidry said after tossing a two-hitter Sunday, leading the New York Yankees to a 1-0 victory over the Texas Rangers.

The left-hander gave up a two-out triple to Jim Sundberg in the first inning and a leadoff single to Bert Campaneris in the seventh.

Still, it wasn't easy as Rangers pitcher Dock Ellis was almost as stingy. The Yankees got eight hits off Ellis and needed a little luck to get their run. Graig Nettles hammered a long drive in the New York sixth inning which right fielder Tom Grieve appeared to be ready to catch near the fence in right center. However, center fielder Juan Beniquez cut in front of Grieve and the ball caromed off Beniquez' glove as he tried for a leaping catch.

One out later, Ellis, 7-11, fell behind 3-0 on Reggie Jackson. Jackson swung at the next pitch and dumped a bloop single into center field, scoring Nettles.

In other AL games Sunday, the Detroit outslug the California Angels 12-9, the Oakland A's defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 6-2, the Cleveland Indians downed the Seattle Mariners 10-6, the Kansas City Royals blanked the Baltimore Orioles 5-0, the Boston Red Sox edged the Minnesota Twins 6-5 and the Milwaukee Brewers clobbered the Chicago White Sox 10-1.

By posting their 18th victory in their last 21 games, the Yankees remained two games ahead of second-place Boston in the AL East race and opened a four-game lead over Baltimore.

Tigers 12, Angels 9

A throwing error in the sixth inning by Bobby Bonds negated his two-homer performance and helped Detroit down California. Bonds' error allowed the winning run to score, snapping a 9-9 tie. homer of the season in the eighth for the Tigers and Detroit scored five runs in the fifth inning as California pitcher Mike Barlow walked four batters.

Royals 5, Orioles 0

A two-run homer by John Wathan was the big blow as Kansas City blanked Baltimore. Wathan also doubled in the sixth inning when the Royals scored two runs.

Andy Hassler, 7-5, and Doug Bird combined for a five-hitter as the Royals posted their 11th victory in 12 games. The Orioles have lost six of their last eight.

Red Sox 6, Twins 5

Carl Yastrzemski singled in the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and relievers Mike Paxton and Bill Campbell held Minnesota at bay as Boston nipped the Twins.

Paxton allowed just one hit from the fifth inning until the ninth when Minnesota threatened with two hits. Campbell then took over and retired Rod Carew and Lyman Bostock, ending the game.

Brewers 10, White Sox 1

A tremendous home run by Sal Bando capped Milwaukee's four-run first inning as the Brewers routed Chicago. Don Money drove in three Milwaukee runs with a homer and a single.

Bando's 16th homer of the season, aided by a 23-mile-per-hour wind, landed on the upper deck roof in left field as he became the 19th player in the 67-year history of Comiskey Park to hit the ball out of the big stadium.

Lary Sorensen, 5-7, had a two-hit shutout until Eric Soderholm led off the Chicago sixth with his 21st homer.

A's 6, Blue Jays 2

Mitchell Page slammed his 14th home run of the season and Vida Blue tossed a six-hitter, leading Oakland past Toronto. Blue, 13-15, struck out nine and walked four.

Page's eighth-inning blast carried over the fence in deep right-center, and the A's added two more runs in the ninth on Jim Tyrone's RBI double and a run-scoring single by Rob Piccolo.

Indians 10, Mariners 6

Rico Carty blasted a triple and two homers, driving in five runs, helping Cleveland to its 10-6 victory over Seattle. Carty smacked a two-run triple, capping the Indians' three-run first inning, led off the fourth with a solo home run and closed out a five-run fifth inning with a two-run shot to right field.

Ron Pruitt added a three-run homer for Cleveland as the Indians gained their 14th victory in the last 20 games.

Gregg wins race

LEXINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Peter Gregg of Jacksonville, Fla., earned $14,000 for finishing first in a 113-lap endurance race at Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course Sunday.

Gregg raced a Porsche 935 at an average speed of 89.677 m.p.h. to win a three-hour race. After starting 10th and emerging quickly as the leader, Gregg spun out and lost his advantage.

But he struggled back into the lead in the field of 45 cars and held on for the win on the twisting, 2.4-mile road racing circuit — 271.2 miles later.

Gregg, one of America's winningest Porsche drivers, won by 52.906 seconds over another Porsche, driven by Jacky Ickx of Brussels, Belgium, and Skeeter McKitterick of Sherman Oaks, Calif.

A four-time winner of the LeMans endurance race, Ickx started in the 11th position and was leading after nine laps. But a broken sway bar resulted in his falling back to the second spot.

A Porsche 935, driven by Jim Busby of Laguna Beach, Calif., and John O'Stein of Cincinnati, finished third. Porsche drivers held eight of the top 10 finishing spots.

Gregg's ex-teammate, Hurley Haywood, also of Jacksonville, and Bob Hagestad of Denver, codrivers of a Porsche 934 owned by Hagestad, finished fourth, averaging 88.338 m.p.h.

One 45 Is Platinum So Far in '77

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In the first half of 1977, the Recording Industry Association of America Inc. certified one platinum single record, 19 platinum LPs, 27 gold single records and 72 gold LPs.

To become platinum, a single record has to sell two million copies and an LP one million copies.

To become gold, a single record has to sell one million copies. An LP issued before January 1975 becomes gold by having sold $1 million wholesale and LPs released after that date are certified gold on the sale of 500,000 copies. In the counting, sales of equivalent prerecorded tape are added to LP sales.

The only platinum 45 r.p.m. record certified in the first six months of this year was "Car Wash," by Rose Royce, a nine-member Los Angeles group. The tune is from the movie of the same name.

Barry Manilow had two LPs certified platinum in the first half of '77, "This One's for You" and "Barry Manilow Live." Other platinum albums are "Rock and Roll Over," Kiss; "Greatest Hits," War; "Greatest Hits," Linda Ronstadt; "A Star Is Born," Barbra Streisand and Kris Kristofferson; "Rocky," movie soundtrack;

"All Things in Time," Lou Rawls; "Rumours," Fleetwood Mac; "Animals," Pink Floyd;

GWEN DICKEY Of Rose Royce

"Leftovers," Kansas; "Year of the Cat," Al Stewart; "Night Moves," Bob Seger and the Bullet Band; "The Pretender," Jackson Browne; "Ask Rufus," Rufus featuring Chaka Khan; "After the Lovin'," Engelbert Humperdinck; "Go for Your Guns," Isley Brothers; "Book of Dreams," Steve Miller Band; and "I'm in You," Peter Frampton.

The Eagles had two singles go gold in the first half of 1977, "New Kid in Town" and "Hotel California." Other gold singles are "Hot Line," the Sylvers; "Beth," Kiss; "I'll Be Good to You," Brothers Johnson; "Nadia's Theme (The Young and the Restless)," Barry DeVorzon and Perry Botkin Jr.; "Stand Tall," Burton Cummings; "Sorry Seems to Be the Hardest Word," Elton John;

"Enjoy Yourself," the Jacksons; "Torn Between Two Lovers," Mary MacGregor; "After the Lovin'," Engelbert Humperdinck; "Blinded by the Light," Manfred Mann's Earth Band; "I Like Dreamin'," Kenny Nolan; "Dancing Queen," ABBA; "Evergreen," Barbra Streisand; "Rich Girl," Daryl Hall and John Oates;

"I Never Cry," Alice Cooper; "Don't Give Up on Us," David Soul; "I've Got Love on My Mind," Natalie Cole; "The Things We Do for Love," 10 CC; "Fly Like an Eagle," Steve Miller Band; "Southern Nights," Glen Campbell;

"Tryin' to Love Two," William Bell; "When I Need You," Leo Sayer; "Ain't Gonna Bump No More," Joe Tex; "Lucille," Kenny Rogers and "Undercover Angel," Alan O'Day.

Kiss saw three LPs turn gold in the first six months of 1977, "Dressed to Kill," "Kiss" and "Hotter than Hell." Johnny "Guitar" Watson mined his first gold in 25 years of playing.

WELL-TRAINED HORSE--An entry in the Triple R Rustlers 4-H Club horse show picked up some valuable points with the above performance Sunday at the Fayette County Fairgrounds. The young rider had to dismount, walk to the far side of the corral, turn and face the horse. The horse simply had to stand still and did just that while giving the photographer a less than friendly glance. The young girl then had to walk past the horse and hopefully the animal would turn and follow. The photograph at the right indicates that the horse passed with flying colors.

Several other weekend accidents checked

Area man hospitalized after motorcycle mishap

A local man was hospitalized after his motorcycle overturned in a ditch along Ohio 41-N near Upper Jamestown Road Sunday night, according to a Fayette County Sheriff's Department report.

Listed in satisfactory condition by Fayette County Memorial Hospital officials is Robert S. Ellis, 26, of Apt. 6, 1026 Cedar St. He was taken to the hospital by the Jeffersonville life squad unit after he failed to negotiate a left curve along Ohio 41-N around 10 p.m. and ran off the road into a ditch, sheriff's deputies reported. The cycle flipped over when it struck the ditch. Sheriff's deputies stated a citation may be issued pending further investigation of the accident.

Two other persons claimed injuries following a two-car collision Saturday afternoon on Washington-Waterloo Road at Barbara Lane, according to sheriff's deputies. However, neither Robert D. Hill, 48, of 4699 Washington-Waterloo Road, nor Robbie L. Vorhees, 19, of Jeffersonville, the two drivers involved were treated at time of the accident.

The sheriff's report stated both vehicles were northeast bound on Washington-Waterloo Road around 4:45 Saturday afternoon. Vorhees started to pass Hill's vehicle, which was towing a camping trailer, as Hill started a left turn onto Barbara Lane.

Vorhees' car struck the left front of Hill's and the impact sent Vorhees skidding over 100 feet into a ditch off the left side of the road.

Sheriff's deputies cited Vorhees for improper passing at an intersection. Both vehicles sustained moderate damage.

Washington C.H. police officers reported a passenger claimed injury in another collision involving two cars on Columbus Avenue Saturday night.

The officers reported Wanda Durlinger, 58, of 5477 U.S. 22-E, was not treated at the time the incident occurred. She had been riding in a car driven by her husband, Charles H. Durlinger, 64, when the vehicle was struck in the rear just east of Blackstone Street.

On Sept. 23, the Performing Arts Hall association will present its third annual premier, "The Fabulous Fours," featuring the Four Aces, the Four Inkspots, the Four Lads and the Pied Pipers, presenting music of the 50s.

Some other activities planned are Lifespan Planning workshops, Saturday, Sept. 24, with special guest speaker Dr. Sonya Friedman, psychologist and special correspondent to ABC News; a Corporate Visitation for area businessmen, Thursday, Sept. 29.

POLICE

SATURDAY-- Forrest R. Walraven, 68, of Wilmington, was cited by police officers after his car reportedly rear-ended a car, driven by Ted J. Shepherd, 43, of 1143 E. Paint St., which was stopped at a red light around 11:55 a.m. on W. Court Street at Hinde Street. Both cars received slight damage.

Wanda L. Aills, 17, of 814 Leesburg Ave., was cited for failure to yield after she pulled into the path of another car on Columbus Avenue from the entrance of Wendy's Restaurant around 12:40 p.m. The other driver was Robert W. Moyer, 59, of Wilmington. Minor damage was sustained by both vehicles.

SUNDAY-- Two cars received slight damage around 12:10 p.m. when Lois A. Wright, 21, of 6487 Scioto Farms Road, entered the main parking lot in front of Murphy's Mart, 300 Washington Square, and collided with a car driven by Danny P. White, 21, of 810 John St. No one was cited.

SHERIFF

SATURDAY-- A semi-tractor trailer driver, Lamont A. Ellingwood, 28, of Muncie, Ind., lost control of his rig around 11:20 a.m. along U.S. 35 near Bogus Road while rounding a left curve and ran off the right side of the road. The vehicle ran into a ditch, crashed through 10 rods of farm fence, damaged a 200-foot by 10-foot area of standing corn, smashed through a property line fence and came to rest in a hay field. He was not injured, but his tractor sustained moderate damage.

SUNDAY-- About 11 a.m. a car, driven by Michael J. Gossard, 22, of Derby, overturned along the access road to Deer Creek State Park apparently after a ball joint in the left front of the vehicle broke. The car ran into a ditch on the right side and flipped over on its top. He was not injured.

William K. Adams, 38, of Ocean Springs, Miss., struck a vehicle about 6:55 p.m. on U.S. 35 after the other car slowed for a left turn onto Ohio 729. Sheriff's deputies reported Adams did not have an assured clear distance and was forced to swerve left when the other driver, Fred S. King, 21, of Decatur, Ind., failed to signal for his turn. The impact sent both vehicles off the left roadside, but only slight damage was sustained by the cars.

Rites slated for archbishop

CINCINNATI (AP) -- Funeral services were scheduled today at St. Peter in Chains Church for retired Archbishop Karl Alter, who served 19 years as leader of a half million Catholics in the archdiocese of Cincinnati.

He died last week at age 92 in a Cincinnati hospital.

Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin, who now heads the archdiocese of Cincinnati and its 19-county area, will be joined in the pontifical Mass of Christian burial by Archbishop Edward A. McCarthy of Miami, Fla., and Bishop Clarence G. Isenman of Cleveland. Archbishop Alter, a native of Toledo, Ohio, was installed by Pope Pius XII as archbishop of Cincinnati in 1950 and served until 1969.

He played an important role in establishment of The Catholic Hour, a nationally-broadcast radio program which began in the late 1920s.

He broke precedent in Cincinnati on April 7, 1968 when he presided at an ecumenical prayer service held in memory of Dr. Martin Luther King. A Jewish rabbi and a Protestant minister joined in the memorial service, part of which was nationally televised.
